Lighting Requirements

Bougainvillea bonsai thrive in bright, indirect light. Position them near a window that receives ample sunlight without exposing them to direct rays, which can scorch the leaves.

Watering Schedule

Water your bougainvillea bonsai regularly, allowing the soil to dry out slightly between waterings. During hot, dry weather, increase the watering frequency to prevent dehydration.

Fertilization

Fertilize your bougainvillea bonsai during the growing season (spring and summer) with a balanced liquid fertilizer diluted to half strength.

Pruning and Shaping

Regular pruning is essential for maintaining the shape and size of your bougainvillea bonsai. Use sharp, clean shears to remove unwanted branches and encourage new growth.

Repotting

Repot your bougainvillea bonsai every 2-3 years or when it becomes rootbound. Use a well-draining bonsai soil mix and ensure that the new pot is slightly larger than the previous one.
